Season's Greetings

The Lynch Creek staff is gearing up for yet another exciting holiday season! Our mission has always been to delight our loyal customers and their gift recipients by handcrafting some of the most elegant evergreen products on the market. This year, in addition to adding more winter products, we've added several new fall designs. It's time to find a comfy chair, sit back and peruse our colorful brochure. We look forward to being a part of your holiday tradition!

OUR STORY

Our family-owned business, located in the Pacific Northwest, was established in 1980. We have grown from a small farm operation, selling a few flowers and vegetables at the local farmers' market on weekends, to a full-blown year-round business that ships dahlia tubers in the spring and fresh evergreens in the late fall and winter months throughout the United States.

ECO FRIENDLY FARM

Our handcrafted products are made with only the freshest noble fir, Western red and incense cedar, juniper, and white pine. Our boughs come from the foothills of the Olympic and Cascade Mountains. Trees are not cut down, just trimmed to ensure a lifetime of production while maintaining a natural forest for wildlife which helps ensure a sustainable ecosystem for future generations. Along with other decorations like our fabulous hand-tied bows, we often incorporate additional natural greenery like salal and holly into our designs.
